

QUIZ-2

Users and Groups

Question 1:

Basic information about the characteristics of a user's account can be found in:

ans: /etc/passwd

Question 2:

Adding a new user to a group is done with:

ans: usermod

Question 3:

Which provides stronger security and auditing for system activity:

ans: sudo

Question 4:

Differences between su and su - include (Select all answers that apply):

ans:

- su preserves more information, such as current directory, path and environment variables
- su - starts a new login shell, while su just continues the current shell, but gives it super privileges

Question 5:

Which is the proper way to use sudo with echo?

ans: sudo bash -c "echo 3 > /proc/sys/vm/drop_caches"